

NIKKI SMITH

Nikki Smith serves as the Communications and Support Specialist for the Jacksonville Office of Live the Life. She has a great calling on her life to serve the local church and loves strengthening her community by promoting marriage and families. She has been an active church leader serving as a ministry head for both children's and women's programs for the past fifteen years. Before joining Live the Life, Nikki graduated from the University of North Florida with a bachelors in English. Over the last few years, she has developed a passion for nonprofits; working for a statewide special education program and then moving on to promote and enhance local worship ministries. In her free time, Nikki is an avid reader and baker. She is also a great lover of the outdoors--taking trips as often as possible to hike in the mountains and admire God's beautiful creation.
